Worrying is the Worst: Protect Your Shipment with InsulTote

Shipping your products is serious business. We understand that when your customer opens their package, that first impression can last a lifetime.

Luckily, we take this seriously too. Melted, spoiled, or mushy products are a total bummer! We want you to feel confident that your temperature-sensitive products will arrive in good condition and create a lasting image of quality and care. Let's take some control back!

InsulTote Quick Tips

- You can save money using an InsulTote Pouch instead of a box liner
- Slide fitted InsulTote box liner or pouch into your shipping box
- Pack products in first
- Add appropriate refrigerant on top nearest tape seal

If you need help figuring out what works best with your product, give us a call or email, and we'll help you find a solution.

- Remove tape covering and fold down opposite flap first
- Gently press out remaining air
- Create air-tight seal for best performance
- Fold corner flaps across top
- Tape outer box and ship out with confidence!

If this is all new to you, and you have more questions about how to protect your products from temperature changes, our packaging expert is always willing to lend advice and share experiences on how InsulTote has worked best for similar products. Call or email us today so you can get started on a solution for your stress!
